“Reimagining Together: A Community Workshop That Reclaims Story and Skills for Going with the Heart”

Guest Speaker: Tenneson Woolf

January 20, 2024 – 9:00 am - Noon

Are you seeking more meaningful connections? With colleagues? With communities? With friends? With family? Do you yearn to learn and grow? Then, this is the interactive online workshop for you.

We all seek purposeful, life-giving, and simple ways to be wise together. And kind together. And inspired. And helpful. And authentic. In the causes of our hearts and the causes of our times.

Yet, there is much in contemporary society that stifles such desires. So many of us are pressed for time. And pressed with skewed bias. And pressed with life complexities. And other things that distract and distort.

In this interactive online workshop, we will lean into each other. For story. For breath. For belonging. For wonder. We will dwell together in the oldest of communal ways — being curious together.

Our guest speaker, Tenneson Woolf, is a poet, a guide, and a 30+ years group process facilitator. He will bring some of his craft that helps to create container for connection and learning. Expect a bit of teaching. Expect a bit of reflecting together. Expect a bit of sharing stories. Expect a break to step away from screen. Expect a few questions to guide the story and skills of going with heart. Check out his website for more information: <https://www.tennesonwoolf.com>
